Location: Elbaville, NC
Diagnosis: Lumbar Disc Degeneration

I am a handy man, so the ability to move around comfortably is necessary for my work. I suppose from years of handling heavy equipment and work, I really lost my ability to move about properly. My back hurt too badly. I took a lot of pain medication to cope. Now this helped, but it never did anything for the condition. Eventually, increasing the dosage for this stuff just put me in a daze, making it hard to concentrate. A friend recommended a doctor who prescribed electrotherapy as an alternative to this medication. So I went for it. I was prescribed a Criterion NMES device for my lower back and within a few weeks I really noticed the difference in my ability to move. Now I use the device almost everyday after work and occasionally I take Advil on the fly. Most important, my back doesn't hurt and I can move again!

*Eternally Grateful,
Jerry*
